Instead of a closet full of random clothing, the staple pieces declutter down the staple pieces that are mixed and more neutral than matching to create dozens of clothes. What happens over time is that we buy random clothing items throughout the year without thinking about how much clothes we can make from it. You will be able to pair a white shirt with almost any bottoms, but a purple flower top can work with only a few items, limiting how many outfits you can create. So open your closet and mind to the concept of a carefully thought-out capsule wardrobe to reduce your stressful mornings. Especially if you are a teacher, you know that there is less stress than how you can live without worrying about what to wear every day. So it's time to create your own teacher capsule wardrobe for the year you will permanently change your morning routine. The big misconception about capsule cabinets is that it's boring, and this fact couldn't be more! Simplifying your wardrobe doesn't mean you're suddenly dressed like your grandmother. (Unless, he has amazing style!) You can still rock your favorite colors, your favorite prints, dresses and skirts, pants and jeans. Regardless of the style, a capsule wardrobe is waiting for you! Once you have a clear idea of the style you are going for, make a list of what you already have and what you need to buy to complete your own teacher capsule wardrobe. The next step is to have fun mixing and your collection to create as many outfits as possible. Pro Tip: Remember Clueless? While she was getting dressed in the morning, her computer shuffles different pieces and her clothes are digitized for her. You can do the same! Get you a pic of every possible outfit combination and eliminate them in the morning if you have trouble choosing an outfit for the day! The easiest way to get started is to be motivated.
